Final Exam Attempt

I have marked your final exam attempt and it was 40% which is still very low. The written section was better.

Since you were able to improve the attempt I'm willing to give you a pass at 50% in the course. If you would like to try and increase further, you'd need to come in and do another attempt on the final exam.

Please let me know what you decide.
Either way, congratulations on completing and passing Anatomy & Physiology 12!

Sorry, I after sending you the email, I noticed in your grades you still have no attempts for the missing unit tests online which you should be completing at home.

Please get those done asap and make sure the marks are still as high as the others so to not drop your mark further.

Re: Pre-Calculus 12 — Course Completion and Timeline

Hi Joshua,

There are 4 major tests. You have 3 more module tests to write.

I have marked your first module exam, and it was not a passing grade. It seems like you have not submitted any learning guides, and this may be a reason for your struggles on the module exam. Those learning guides need to be completed before you do the module exams. This will take a significant amount of time to complete.

I have open tutorial support time on Mondays and Tuesdays between 3:30-6:30pm if you need help with the concepts.

Take care,

Jeremy Ratcliffe
